ABOUT ME

Hello I am full-stack web developer with over three years of professional experience. Focused on sustainable and scalable web application architecture using Ruby on Rails with extensive cutting edge technologies like Mongodb, Redis etc. Apart from development, I have extensive knowledge on operations (Ruby on rails Architecture setup with Apache and passenger etc.). I have worked on numerous projects with a wide range of frameworks. I am keen in learning new technologies and implementing new ideas to help build an enhanced web experience. I love to work on modern web technologies (Redis, mongodb, angular js etc.) to make the web experience flawless and interesting. I have acquired a deep understanding of user requirements which helps me to visualize and prototype to give the best experience to the user. I also consider myself to have excellent communication and motivational skills along with good qualities of a Team Lead with shared learning.
